

To Whom It May Concern,

I'm pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Obai Sukar, a colleague I've worked closely with for nearly a decade across two healthcare organizations: Comprehensive Lab Services and Catalyst Diagnostic. Over the years, Obai has constantly impressed me with his leadership, attention to detail, and calm, communicative approach to managing complex financial and operational responsibilities.

From 2014 to 2019, Obai served as the Office Manager at Comprehensive Lab Services, a busy medical testing laboratory. In that role, he oversaw accounts payable and receivable, managed payroll, and coordinated administrative tasks across departments. He not only kept things running smoothly but also found ways to make them better.

Obai played a key role in streamlining billing procedures and tightening up internal systems, making a noticeable impact on the lab's overall efficiency. He was someone staff and leadership alike could count on to follow through and deliver results.

In 2020, we both moved to Catalyst Diagnostic, where Obai took on the role of Chief Financial Officer. There, he led the company's financial operations with the same steady hand. He oversaw medical billing systems, handled audits with clarity and professionalism, and implemented new financial and operational systems from the ground up. These changes didn't just improve workflow; they helped build a stronger foundation for the company's growth.

Throughout our time working together, I've always appreciated Obai's level-headedness, sound judgment, and the way he approaches challenges with both logic and empathy. He's someone you can trust to lead with integrity and follow through with results.

Any organization would be lucky to have him on their team. I recommend Obai without hesitation.

Sincerely,
